Synodality has been much spoken of during the past two years, with its theme 'Communion, Participation, Mission. Each diocese has a listening process. The contributions from the Irish Dioceses were compiled into a Synthesis. In turn this was presented at a gathering in Prague in February. The final document from the European Continental Assembly (5 to 12 February) has now been published It has been published in English and Italian with the English section beginning on page 36. Read the document on www.associationofcatholicpriests or on <https://prague.synod2023.org/en/> The document published today, in Italian and English, is a concluding dossier and contains:

1. The Final Considerations that were approved by the European Continental Assembly during its final session of work (9 February) and immediately circulated. They constitute a kind of executive summary of the more extensive Final Document.
2. The final document accepted in draft by the European Continental Assembly during its final session on 9 February and subsequently supplemented by the Drafting Committee with amendments gathered in written form following the Assembly exchange.
3. The Bishops' concluding note, approved at the concluding session of the Meeting of the Presidents of the Bishops' Conferences (11 February) and immediately circulated.
4. The list of participants (Appendix A)
5. The working programme (Appendix B)

This document, along with 6 more from the other continental assemblies, was sent to Rome where the work is beginning on the preparation of the official working document for the Synod which will take place in the autumn.
