The Story of a Soldier

Among five people named recently for canonization was Charles de Foucauld (1858 - 1916). Growing up in post-revolution France, Charles lost his faith as an officer in the French army posted in Algeria. His journey back to faith is a thriller. One notices three stages in that journey. First, a cousin in Paris, Marie de Bondy, introduced Charles to many fellow-parishioners. Charles liked the people he met but without attributing anything to their faith-life. However, their witness had touched him but without his realizing it!

One Sunday he stood in the porch listening to the homily. A sentence of Fr Huvelin struck him with force: 'Jesus Christ took the last place in this world so perfectly that nobody will ever be able to take it away from him.' The idea challenged Charles, even touching a latent but lost idealism. Charles decided to meet the speaker, the Abbe Huvelin. The Abbe concluded the conversation by inviting Charles to unburden himself in Confession and to nourish himself with the Eucharist. It was his moment of encounter with the Risen Lord. And the rest is history. - Fr Tom
